In order to adjust the ring, slack the screws, run the sight by means of the worm gear to the point blank position, then move the drum round till the zero point is in line with the pointer, then tighten the screws. The crosshead on the sight bar gives 2 deflection, right and left, and is fitted with a screwed deflection window of H form, with a horizontal wire stretched across. When guns are not to be used for some time, the sights should be removed and plugs should be inserted in the holes for mounting the sights. ELECTRIC NIGHT SIGHTS. These night sights consist of two small fittings, which are easily attached to the heads of the ordinary day sights. A minute point or line of light is obtained at each sight, by permitting the rays proceeding...
