Hill Before the Farmers National Congress, Madison, Wisconsin, September 24, 1908 What we are here for is to consider how to increase the farmer s successes, lessen his failures and place his work upon the most certain foundation. His occupation is the first to exist in a civilized state. It is the basis of all other industry. And only recently we are coming to realize that it is an exact science. The man no longer deserves the name of farmer who conceives of his industry as a scratching of the earth, a hit-or-miss scattering of seed and a harvesting of such yield as soil and weather may permit. That is not farming, but a game of chance. This is, therefore, a gathering of representatives of a profession; and as such it is a first duty to consider the place of farm industry in the national economy, and to what extent it is prepared to meet present and future demands upon it. For grave national concerns, the state of civilizations, the condition of social life and the fate of institutions as well as the farmer s position and prosperity will depend upon his readiness to meet the work surely coming in the advancing years. After an army has been raised and before it can enter upon any campaign, the first consideration is to provide its food. If that is a failure, the bravest and best organized force will melt away in a week. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
